Foundation's continuing and generous support. Grant funds are to be expended as follows: Meetings and projects of LASA committees, $25,000; International scholarly relations, $9,000; Professional workshops, $9,000; LASA publications and Newsletter, $20,000; Ways and Means committee expenses, $6,000; and Emergency Committee to Aid Latin American Scholars (ECALAS), $10,500.

BY-LAW AMENDMENT AND DUES INCREASE

A By-Law amendment, which would permit raising annual dues in 1976 from $15.00 to $18.00 for members and from $8.00 to $9.00 for Graduate Student Associates, was mailed to all paid-up Members and GSA's on June 26, 1975. The amendment reads as follows:

VII. Dues

The annual dues of the Association, which shall include a subscription to the Latin American Research Review and the LASA Newsletter, shall be due and payable to the Executive Secretary on January 1.

a. The annual dues for Members shall be set by two-thirds vote of the Executive Council.

b. The annual dues for Graduate Student Associates, whose status shall be certified by their principal advisors, shall be set by two-thirds vote of the Executive Council. Graduate Student Associates shall be permitted to pay dues at this special rate for a maximum of five years.

Note: For the complete text of the Constitution and By-Laws, please see the September, 1974, Newsletter.

The above will be considered ratified, and the new dues schedule in effect, if a request for a mail ballot on the amendment is not received within 90 days.

1976 NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Paid up Members and GSA's were notified on June 26, 1975 that the Executive Council had decided on a one-year trial change in the process of constituting the Nominating Committee. Prof. Jane Jaquette (political science, Occidental College), chairperson; Prof. Shane Hunt (economics, Boston University), and Prof. Joan Ciruti (literature, Mt. Holyoke) were named by the Executive Council to the 1976 Nominating Committee. LASA Members and GSA's may nominate additional persons to the 1976 Nominating Committee by petitions bearing at least 50 (fifty) signatures of Members and GSA's in good standing, with no member or GSA signing more than one such petition. The two persons nominated with the largest number of signatures over the minimum will be added to the 1976 Nominating Committee. All petitions must be received at the Secretariat prior to September 30, 1975.
FORTHCOMING PUBLICATIONS

Two additional Consortium of Latin American Studies Programs (CLASP) publications make their appearance this fall: Latin America: An Acquisition Guide for Colleges and Public Libraries, edited by Earl J. Pariseau and funded by the Tinker Foundation (CLASP No. 7; $10.00 non-Members; $5.00 LASA/CLASP Members) and Directory of Latin American Studies Programs and Faculty in the U.S. compiled by Margo L. Smith (CLASP No. 8; $7.00 non-Members; $3.50 LASA/CLASP Members). The Secretariat is now accepting orders for these publications.

HANDBOOK OF LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES

Once again, an order form for the special LASA edition of the Handbook is included in this issue. Members are reminded that this is a one-year trial experiment. If member response is not sufficient to defray the extra costs incurred, the Association will regretfully have to abandon the experiment and the membership will thus lose the opportunity to accumulate a number of yearly volumes of this prestigious publication. SEND IN YOUR ORDER NOW.

SECOND PROGRAM COMMITTEE REPORT & RENEWED CALL FOR PARTICIPANTS
March 25-28, 1976

The Program Committee is pleased to announce its decisions of September 18, 1975. Of the more than 25 proposals received for the second round of judging, the following were approved:

Panel 18---The Mexico—United States Border Interface
Oscar J. Martínez (U. of Texas, El Paso)

Panel 19---U.S. Response to Nationalization and Denationalization in Latin America
Marvin Bernstein (Buffalo)

Panel 20---U.S. Newsmedia and Latin America
John C. Pollock (Rutgers, Livingston)

Panel 21---The Comparative Role of Foreign Immigration in Latin American Nations
Ronald C. Sheck (New Mexico State)

Panel 22---CLASP: Alternative Careers in Latin American Studies
Doris Turner (Kent State)

Panel 23---CLASP: The Teaching of Latin American Studies at all Levels
Miriam Williford (Winthrop College)

RENEWED CALL FOR PARTICIPANTS: Because of the 18-month gap between programs and because of the growing LASA constituency, the Executive Council agreed with the Program Committee at the May 17 meeting in Washington, D.C., that in order to develop the best possible program for Atlanta, no arbitrary limit of panels would be imposed, the number being determined mainly by excellence. Hence the program remains open for panels until at least November 15. Although all of the present panels except the Volunteer panel can be considered as closed to individuals, new panel proposals are invited.

NEW PANEL PROPOSALS should contain the title of topic, common questions to be addressed by all ponentes, name of the proposed chairperson, topics and names of proposed ponentes, and names of commentators (if any). Please send one copy of your proposal to each of the undersigned three Program Committee members. Prospective participants are reminded that they should not apply to more than one session.

 VOLUNTEER PAPERS may be sent to Howard and Ieda Wiarda at the Department of Political Science, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts 01002, until November 15. Eligibility for this panel is contingent upon sending to the Wiardas either a copy of the paper proposed or a one-page abstract (detailing the hypotheses, theory, methodology, conclusions, etc.) so that they will have a fair basis upon which to make their choices. Since they have received a number of significant ideas for papers, a strong possibility exists that the session may be divided into two, depending perhaps upon the number of papers received by the November 15 deadline.
LUNCHEON ROUNDTABLES: We have not received as many suggestions for roundtables as needed and would like to take this opportunity to request scholars to notify us of their availability to chair a luncheon session about the topic of their interest. We will select from among proposals received by November 15, trying to formulate interesting and valuable sessions as well as to achieve the balance required by LASA regulations. Please remember that no chairperson extends personal invitations to the luncheon sessions, which are open to all on a first come, first served basis as registration and luncheon reservations are received at the LASA Secretariat.

SPECIAL NOTES: While we expect the program to be finalized by November 15, negotiations with possible Cuban visitors may still need time to come to fruition. It is hoped that a substantial number of Cuban scholars will be in attendance at Atlanta. In any case, we hope to include any such panel that may arise even if after November 15.

For those members planning to submit proposals for new panels, please keep the earlier panels approved in mind. These topics and their respective chairpersons accepted in the first round include:

Panel 1--Popular Literature and Popular Culture
   Jean Franco (Stanford)
Panel 2--Lore in Latin America
   Johannes Wilbert (UCLA)
Panel 3--Cuba: Empirical Analyses of Changes in Individual Beliefs and Behavior
   Jorge Domínguez (Yale)
Panel 4--The State and Public Policy in Latin America
   David Collier (Princeton through December/Indiana)
Panel 5--Quantitative Studies
   Peter H. Smith (Madison)
Panel 6--New Latin American Cinema: Evolution and Future Directions
   Julianne Burton (Santa Cruz)
Panel 7--Human Rights in Latin American Countries
   Patricia Fagen (San Jose State)
Panel 8--Internationalization of Research in Latin American Sociology
   Alejandro Portez (Duke) and Luis Wolf Goodman (SSRC)
Panel 9--Science and Technology in Latin America
   Rosario Morales (Harvard)
Panel 10--Dependency Theory Reassessed
   Albert O. Hirschman (Center for Advanced Studies, Princeton)
Panel 11--Short-Run Economic Policy in Latin America
   Shane J. Hunt (Boston U.)
Panel 12--Corporatism
   Evelyn Stevens (Loyola U., Chicago)

Panel 14--The Effects and Affects of Drugs and Hallucinogens in Latin America

THE TEACHING OF LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES
A NATIONAL SEMINAR

This Seminar, a milestone in the life of the Association, was sponsored jointly by the Association and its institutional arm, the Consortium of Latin American Studies Programs (CLASP), and was held at the University of New Mexico, July 28-August 8, 1975.
We are especially indebted to our host there, Prof. Marshall Nason, Director, Latin American Center.

Financed by a grant from the Tinker Foundation, the Seminar was directed by Prof. Miriam Williford (Winthrop College), chairperson of the Committee on the Teaching of Latin American Studies at All Levels and a member of the CLASP Steering Committee. Collaborating closely in the Seminar were the six National Defense Education Act (NDEA) Centers for Latin America: University of California at Los Angeles, University of Florida, University of New Mexico, University of Texas at Austin, Tulane University, and the University of Wisconsin system. Participating in the Seminar were 60 teachers and supervisors from all over the United States.

The Seminar used the basic approach of teacher training and materials development by teachers themselves, and was designed to accomplish the following ends:

1. To focus national attention on study of Latin America as a major world culture area;
2. To increase the range of curriculum choices offered to school and community-college students;
3. To provide, through the Association or even commercial publication, teaching materials acceptable to both teachers and educators, and professional Latin Americanists—sound content and sound pedagogy;
4. To establish a national network or cadre of teachers to provide in-service teacher training and support in their respective geographical areas as well as nationally;
5. To obtain expanded school-district commitment to innovation, experimentation, and evaluation in the area of Latin American Studies; and,
6. To train teachers in the art of producing Latin American Studies teaching materials themselves.

Seminar content was organized around two themes, with a week devoted to each: cultural ecology and symbols and symbolizing.
Those desiring further, more detailed information on the content of the Seminar are invited to get in touch with Professor Williford. It will also be covered in a forthcoming issue of LARR.

Materials produced for or during the Seminar include the kit,
"In Other Words and Ways", developed by Shirley Brice Heath (Winthrop College), as well as a wide range of materials developed by Seminar participants. These materials are now being evaluated for publication and dissemination. The membership will be kept fully informed.

MINUTES
CLASP STEERING COMMITTEE
Washington, D.C.
February 1-3, 1974

Attending: Kempton Webb substituting for chairperson Charles Hale;
Robert J. Alexander, Carl W. Deal, John J. Finan, Marshall R. Nason, Mary E. Stephenson, Philip B. Taylor, Doris Turner, Miriam Williford; Executive Secretary
Felicity Trueblood.

The primary purpose of the Washington Meeting was to call on government and Congressional officials, seeking information concerning, and support for, funding of international studies in general and Latin American Studies in particular. This was a first for the CLASP Steering Committee, and information gathered has proved most helpful to the Steering Committee and to the CLASP/LASA Secretariat. Calls included visits to the following on February 1, 1974:

Edward Meador, Special Assistant to the Director, Division of International Education, U.S. Office of Education

Ann Schneider, International Education, Office of Education

John Cookson, Chief, Fellowships Branch, Office of Education

Tom S. Gettys, Office of Education

Peter Lydon and Maxwell Chaplin, Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, Department of State

Curt Barker, Special Assistant for University Relations, Agency for International Development (AID)

Senator Ernest Hollings (South Carolina)

Senator Lloyd Bentsen (Texas)

Congressman John Brademas (Indiana)

Robert Andringa, minority staff, House HEW/Labor Committee

Congressman Patten (New Jersey)

Joel Swerdlow, American Council on Education

On February 2 and 3, the Steering Committee considered the following items of regular business:

1. The minutes of the Madison, Wisconsin, meeting May 3-5, 1973, were approved as circulated.
2. The Steering Committee will periodically prepare a position paper on the funding of Latin American Studies, stressing CLASP's unique role as the institutional arm of LASA, and the information and dissemination services it can provide.

3. The two CLASP panels for the Fifth National Meeting, San Francisco, November, 1974, were approved: Future Studies of Latin America chaired by Kempton Webb and The Teaching of Latin American Studies at All Levels chaired by Miriam Williford.

4. CLASP publications in progress were discussed and the Executive Secretary was instructed to obtain progress reports on their completion: the directory of Latin American Studies Programs in the U.S. being prepared by Margo Smith, and the proceedings of the CLASP data bank panel at the Madison National meeting being prepared by William Tyler. $3000-3500 was approved for publications.

5. It was suggested that CLASP publications be sold on subscription to libraries. The Executive Secretary pointed out that the somewhat erratic publication dates of CLASP publications might cause complications, and no action was taken.

6. The Steering Committee agreed to update its publications devoted to Employment and Financial Aid in Latin American Studies and publish in combined form. $500 was authorized for the project.

7. $300 was authorized to hold a CLASP institutional representatives reception at the Fifth National Meeting, San Francisco.

8. The Steering Committee agreed to hold an extraordinary second 1974 meeting at the time of the San Francisco National Meeting. The Steering Committee further agreed to ask the Executive Council to donate $500 of the amount CLASP owes LASA to permit financing of the extraordinary meeting.

9. It was agreed that CLASP would begin thinking of sponsoring a conference for secondary school teachers, similar to those sponsored by the Asian Studies Association, perhaps to be held in 1975 since there would be no National Meeting to conflict. Further discussion was to take place at the November meeting.

10. The Steering Committee resolved to improve relations with the different regional councils and to work with them as closely as possible.

11. It was decided that a CLASP delegation would call on Congressmen Patten in February or March, 1974, to express CLASP concern over federal funding of Latin American Studies. Robert Alexander, John Finan, and Kempton Webb were appointed to the delegation.

12. There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at noon, February 3.
MINUTES
CLASP STEERING COMMITTEE
San Francisco
November 14-16, 1974

Attending: Charles A. Hale (chairperson); Robert J. Alexander, Carl W. Deal, John J. Finan, Marshall R. Nason, Philip B. Taylor, Doris Turner, Miriam Williford; Executive Secretary Felicity Trueblood.

This, a second, extraordinary meeting for 1974, was largely devoted to discussion of the proposed National Seminar on the Teaching of Latin American Studies, a joint CLASP/LASA project. Because the project depended to heavily on the collaboration of the six NDEA Centers for Latin America, their directors and/or curriculum coordinators were invited to attend the discussions. Those in attendance included: John Hawkins (UCLA); Marshall Nason (University of New Mexico); Richard Greenleaf (Tulane University); Edward Glab (University of Texas); William Carter, Doyle Casteel and Felicity Trueblood (University of Florida); and Norman Sacks and G. Micheal Riley (University of Wisconsin system). The kind invitation of the University of New Mexico to host the National Seminar was accepted, and all six Centers pledged their cooperation and support. Miriam Williford and Felicity Trueblood were authorized to seek foundation support for the National Seminar.

Other items of business transacted included the following:
1. Doris Turner (Kent State University) was elected chairperson of the Steering Committee for 1975.
2. Nominees for election to the Steering Committee were chosen as follows:
   Seat One
   Lella Bradfield (Western Michigan)
   Eugenio Chang-Rodríguez (Queens)
   Seat Two
   G. Micheal Riley (Wisc./Milw.)
   Charles Stansifer (Kansas)
3. Final details of the CLASP Institutional Representatives meeting at the Fifth National Meeting, Thursday, November 14, were discussed. The program included presentations by the six NDEA Centers for Latin America curriculum coordinators and/or directors; Rose Lee Hayden of the American Council on Education; Allison McClure of the Emergency Committee to Aid Latin American Scholars (ECALAS); and introduction of distinguished guests including Erika Bruce (Tinker Foundation), Ann Carpenter (Committee on the International Exchange of Scholars), Maxwell Chaplin (Cultural Relations, Department of State), and Robert Myers (Ford Foundation).
4. The Executive Secretary reported on the current activities and finances of CLASP.
5. In view of CLASP's declining membership, the Executive Secretary was instructed to collect names of institutions in default for 1973 and 1974 and forward them to Steering Committee members for their individual and collective action.

6. Steering Committee members agreed to work to recruit CLASP members in their respective geographic areas.

7. The Executive Secretary was authorized to proceed with plans for organization of an Area Studies Associations Liaison Committee at the Executive Secretary level.

8. It was agreed that the 1975 meeting of the Steering Committee would be held at the site of the National Seminar on the Teaching of Latin American Studies if it were funded. In this way, members of the Steering Committee could function as resource persons and also aid in evaluation of the Seminar. There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS
THE GENERAL LIBRARIES

The General Libraries of the University of Texas at Austin maintains one of the broadest Latin American acquisitions programs in the United States. Appropriately, it has provided its Latin American cataloging copy to the international library community through the National Union Catalog and the G.K. Hall Catalog of the Latin American Collection. In 1975, the General Libraries also began entering its Latin American cataloging records into the Ohio College Library Center (OCLC) data base.

As a member of the AMIGOS Bibliographic Council, the General Libraries of the University of Texas at Austin is committed to providing its Latin American cataloging through the OCLC system on a continuing basis. Current Latin American receipts will be cataloged on arrival and input into OCLC; two OCLC terminals will be devoted exclusively to searching and input of cataloging data for Latin American materials. Six full time professionals and assorted support staff will be assigned to work with these materials. Monographs, serials, and non-book materials will all be cataloged for input into the OCLC data basis.

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION

I am with the Peace Corps here in Managua, Nicaragua, working with INDE, the Nicaraguan Development Institute. It is a non-profit, non-political legal entity whose objectives are to unify the forces of the private sector to help solve national social/economic problems. We are about to undertake a new project. It is an attempt to collate all socio-economic studies ever done on Nicaragua and from there to develop a new questionnaire, a new delivery and finally a conclusive report from which the problems and possible solutions will be presented to the government.

We would like to seek assistance from your organization and members in procuring any published studies, research findings, monographs, or working papers on Nicaragua that you have or have resources on. We would also be interested in obtaining any methodology plans and designs you have on the Latin American culture, including questionnaires and surveys.

If you would like a copy of this study when complete or if we could be a resource to you, please feel free to call on me through INDE or the Peace Corps here in Managua.

LASA has now embarked upon the final stage of a three-year dissertation distribution project funded by the Ford Foundation. The project developed out of a concern among scholarly communities of both Latin America and the United States over the fact that the result of research undertaken by North Americans in Latin America had not found its way back to Latin America for use there. This has been particularly true of dissertation research done by graduate students. After consulting with a number of scholars in Latin America, the Executive Council of the Association requested that one or two institutions in each major Latin American country serve as deposit libraries for that country. Each library selected was offered the opportunity to order, at no cost, copies of U.S. doctoral dissertations on Latin American subjects to be added to their permanent, publicly accessible collections. It was asked that each institution selected make every effort to inform other academic centers in their area of the material available. The program was designed in three stages: the institutions selected were offered choices from the lists of dissertations published in 1971, then 1972, and at present--in the final stage--1973.

As of June, 1975, 12 institutions in 11 Latin American countries have participated in the program, including Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil (two: Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo), Colombia, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Jamaica, Peru, Uruguay, and Venezuela. Chile and Mexico have also been invited to join the program. Of the $15,000 allotted to the Association by the Ford Foundation for implementing the program, a total of 427 dissertations have been distributed at a cost of $4,804.41. All countries have received their quotas of 1971 dissertations, but we are still awaiting orders from the 1972 dissertations list from some countries. The 1973 list is now being mailed to participating countries.

Recipient countries have expressed favorable comment on the project. Comments received include the following from the Director of the National Library of Colombia: "...quiero también felicitarlos por este programa que sin duda alguna va a ser de mucha utilidad para nuestros investigadores. Con mucho gusto pondremos a la disposición de las demás bibliotecas del país las tesis que ustedes nos envíen..." The Librarian at the University of the West Indies has informed us, "We shall endeavor, as far as possible, to include in our orders titles in which interest is shown by researchers at other academic centers in the region..." The Director of the Museo Del Hombre Dominicano has advised us as follows: ".Creemos que el servicio podría ser ampliado a los universidades de América." The director of the Universidad Boliviana has written: "La iniciativa de Latin American Studies Association viene a cubrir una necesidad real, puesto que los países donde se han efectuado tales trabajos tienen especial interés en conocerlos. Agradezco la designación de esta Biblioteca y estamos informando a las entidades y centros correspondientes, acerca de estos hechos, a fin de facilitar el acceso a las tesis." Finally, the director of the Instituto de Estudos Brasileiros has written "Desejamos agradecer a colaboração que a LASA oferece a esta Instituto e reiteramos o compromisso porpuesto de dar a maior divulgação possível aos trabalhos que nos são oferecidos em depósito."

The Association is gratified by the success of this program and will keep the membership informed of its future progress.

AUDIT REPORT
LASA/CLASP
DECEMBER 31, 1974

May 12, 1975

Board of Directors
Latin American Studies Association and Consortium of Latin American Studies Programs
Gainesville Florida

We have examined the statement of cash receipts and disbursements of Latin American Studies Association and Consortium of Latin American Studies Programs, Gainesville, Florida for the year ended December 31, 1974. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances, except as stated in the following paragraph.

It was not practicable for the Organization to exercise control over dues, grants, registrations and contributions received directly from the general public prior to initial entry in the accounting records, nor was it practical to extend our examination beyond accounting, on a test basis, for dues, grants, meetings, registrations, and contributions as recorded on the accounting records. Also, it was not practical for the Organization to exercise control over or for us to extend our examination to the various committees and meetings funded by the Organization as listed under cash disbursements on Exhibit I.

In our opinion, the accompanying statement presents fairly the recorded cash receipts and disbursements of Latin American Studies Association and Consortium of Latin American Studies Programs, Gainesville, Florida for the year ended December 31, 1974.

YOUR HELP IS NEEDED!

Events in Chile and other parts of Latin America continue to force scholars out of their native countries to seek employment in exile.

Positions are desperately needed:

--at the graduate student level, get your department/school/college to waive tuition and, ideally, offer an assistantship, travel support, etc.

--at the faculty level, get your department to reserve a vacancy (as short as six months) at any level, hopefully with some travel assistance.

Openings are needed in all fields: contact us for details of urgent and available candidates.

WOMEN'S RESEARCH INFORMATION NETWORK

As part of its program to stimulate intellectual exchange and collaboration between U.S. and Latin American women scholars, LASA's Committee on Women in Latin American Studies recently established facilities for a network of correspondents. Soon after the first announcement of this network appeared in Latin America, the Committee accepted its first candidate: Sra. Jeanne A. Posada, of Cali, Colombia. The new correspondent, a graduate student from the University of California at Berkeley, will supply the Committee and, through it, the membership of LASA, with information about women researchers and research on women in Colombia.

Individuals wishing to nominate candidates from other Latin American countries are invited to communicate with Evelyn F. Stevens, Chairperson, 14609 South Woodland Road, Shaker Heights, Ohio 44120.
MEMORANDUM

TO: Members of LASA

FROM: John C. Pollock (Latin American Institute, Rutgers University) Chairperson, Committee on the U.S. Press Coverage of Latin America

RE: Directory of Journalists Reporting on Latin America

The following list of journalists, indexed by region in the United States and by country in Latin America, represents the beginning of two efforts. The first is an attempt to compile a list of journalists who report regularly on Latin America. It includes names of those who report for U.S. publications as well as those who are influential in distributing hemispheric news to Latin Americans themselves. I ask members of LASA to send me additional names, addresses, and telephone numbers of other journalists concerned with Latin America, especially those reporting to U.S. news media, so that the list can be made more complete.

This directory of journalists is meant to serve a specific goal, however, and our success in pursuing that goal will determine whether it is useful for LASA to create and maintain such a list. The goal is improved communication between Latin American specialists and journalists reporting on the region. Since most journalists must, to keep their positions, spend considerable time developing sources, pleasing editors, and writing for quick deadlines, they have little time and few incentives to maintain regular ties with academics. Career rewards given in journalism to "generalists" rather than "specialists" also discourage collegial relations between newsgatherers and professors. Initiatives for improved reporting on Latin America must therefore come from the academic world.

I urge members of LASA to begin sending copies of their investigations or reports to two kinds of journalists: those who live in countries where investigations were undertaken; and those who live nearby, facilitating closer contact. If LASA members mail drafts or reprints of their work to journalists employed within their own geographic regions, and if this is followed with telephone calls and efforts to establish continuing personal ties with journalists, we will have launched a worthwhile project.

This directory is a small part of our attempt to reduce popular stereotypes about Latin America. It requires relatively little effort from each individual. But the cumulative impact of large numbers of LASA members writing the relatively small number of reporters concerned with Latin America could be quite important. Please contact journalists in your region of study and region of residence and send the names of interested journalists not yet on the LASA list to: John Pollock
Latin American Institute
180 College Avenue
New Brunswick, New Jersey 08903.
DIRECTORY OF JOURNALISTS

This Directory of Journalists covering Latin America has been especially prepared for the Latin American Studies Association by the Latin American Service. We would appreciate corrections, suggestions, and thoughts on how to improve this Directory.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
August 29, 1975

Editor, Newsletter:

I have just received a call from your office requesting information on our flight programs for inclusion in the September LASA Newsletter.

What we are doing in our new endeavor, is to extend our flight programs to South America into an all year round effort. Over the past three summers, we had been conducting flight programs on a limited charter basis, and then, in 1975, to a weekly flight program.

We discovered in our correspondence, that there are still many persons who wish to travel to South America in times other than the summer vacation session either on short trips to attend seminars, make presentations, or even for longer periods to study, do research, or enjoy sabbatical rests.

Because the cost of air transportation is so costly to South American points, we have been able to convince our carriers that if they would offer substantial reductions in their tariffs, we could guarantee enough traffic to compensate them for making their aircraft available to us.

Satisfied with our commitment, and confident of our ability to deliver, ATLAS beginning in the first week of September and continuing throughout the balance of this year and into the next, will offer at least one, and possibly two flights a week to cities such as Guayaquil, Lima, Santiago, Asunción, Buenos Aires, Río and Montevideo. Participants in this program will also have the privilege of selecting any one of the one or two return flights when they are ready to come home. Furthermore, they will have the opportunity to make optional stopovers if they should wish. Thus, for example, a participant going to, say, Montevideo, can, if he or she wishes, make stopovers in Buenos Aires, Santiago, Lima, Guayaquil and even Panama. In effect, the participant is able to enjoy all of the advantages of a regular economy ticket but pays, due to group participation, fares that are several hundred dollars below the regular economy fare!

For convenience, flights will be offered from New York's Kennedy airport and also from Miami International. While we would like to have participants enroll as members in ATLAS (nominal dues of $4.50 per year), we do not require membership as a requisite for participation. Readers of the LASA Newsletter, who would like further information and rates, etc., should write to our box number.

This flight program is another step we have taken in order to enable teachers and students to experience first hand, the beauty, diversity and reality that is the area of our mutual interest. This past summer, we conducted a Spanish language program at the University of the Andes in Bogotá, that enjoyed great success. We are planning on developing additional study programs in South America for the summer of 1976. All of these programs are possible because of voluntary contributions of labor and time by members of the organization who are dedicated to the promotion of Latin America in our schools at all academic levels.

In closing, I wish to again thank you for making our programs known through the Newsletter.

Sincerely yours,

/s/ Daniel J. Mungan

COORDINATING COMMITTEE OF THE ASSOCIATIONS FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE IN THE AMERICAS

The American Association for the Advancement of Science announces the formation of a new international organization which plans to publish a trilingual journal of science and technology for development entitled Science and Man. The journal, to be published in South America, will be edited by Dr. Marcel Roche of Venezuela, and will emphasize general and review articles on specific problems of application of science in such areas as food and nutrition, marine sciences, tropical agriculture, arid lands, population, technology transfer and others. The new organization grew out of 1973 Mexico City meetings sponsored jointly by AAAS and Mexico's National Council of Science and Technology. Officers of the Committee and AAAS invite comments and suggestions for the journal, and would particularly appreciate suggestions as to potential contributors of articles. Write: James W. Rowe, AAAS Staff Coordinator, American Association for the Advancement of Science, 1515 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005.

SOCIETY FOR LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES

LASA's British counterpart held their 10th annual conference at University College of Swansea, Wales, from April 14-16. Paul B. Goodwin (University of Connecticut) attended and has sent us a brief account of the meeting. He reports that over 230 members from Great Britain, the Continent, Latin America, and the U.S. attended. The turnout, the largest in the Society's history, attests to the vitality of and strong interest in Latin American studies in Great Britain. The Annual General Meeting opened the conference and was marked by a spirited discussion of SLAS' role vis à vis the current situation in Chile. A special program on Welsh settlers in Argentina rounded out the first day of activities. Other special programs held in the evening included a forum for Chileans in Britain, an illustrated lecture by G.L. Playfair on "The Spiritualist Movement in Brazil," and a panel discussion, chaired by Bernard Naylor, on "Library Resources for Latin American Studies in Britain." The main sessions of the meeting were organized by discipline, including Economics, Geography, History, Literature, Politics and Sociology. Most papers were of high quality and reflected the results of field research in Latin America. Peru has attracted the attention of many European Latin Americanists and was the subject of seven sessions.
WOMEN'S COALITION OF LATIN AMERICANISTS (WOCILA)

Margaret E. Crahan has sent an update on the activities of the Eastern, Midwestern branches:

New York: WOCILA will meet in October to hear Bela Bianco, (Columbia University) speak on "The Politics of Latin American Women." In November Jimena Bunster (Rutgers University) and Elsa Chaney (Fordham University) will report on their research on working class women in Peru.

Chicago: The organizational meeting of the Midwest branch of WOCILA was held September 12th at Northeastern Illinois University. The new branch will develop activities based upon needs of women Latin Americanists in their area. Contact is Margo Smith at Northeastern Illinois University.

San Francisco: The West Coast branch met May 10 at the University of California-Berkeley. Kathleen O'Quinn discussed the bibliography of Latin American Women Authors which she is compiling. Because of the amount of information she has gathered (2,500 women writers), she has organized, along with Daniel Sandford and José Varela-Ibarra, the Clearinghouse for Women Authors of the Americas (see separate box this issue). Inés Gómez announced that an organization of women workers in Chile was currently being organized by a Chilean presently at the Berkeley campus. Ms. Gómez is co-organizer of La Peña, a Latin American cultural center in Berkeley which opened at the beginning of June. Marta Paley de Francescato will chair a session on "Women and Latin American Literature" at the Modern Language Association meeting in San Francisco this December. She can be contacted at the Department of Spanish, University of Illinois, Urbana 61801. At the next meeting Mercedes Ibáñez Clark, a Peruvian poet, will read some of her poetry (English and Spanish). Also, Meri Knaster will read a draft of her article "Women in Latin America: The State of Research 1975" which she is preparing for LARR.

CONFERENCES

UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA, EDMONTON

The University of Alberta, Edmonton, hosted the Annual General Meeting of the Canadian Association of Latin American Studies (CALAS) May 27-29. Sessions included "Kinds of Revolutionary Movements in Latin America", chaired by Walter Kontak (St. Francis University); "Mobilization of the Masses", chaired by Lionel Valee (University of Montreal); "Adult Education in Latin America", chaired by Jules Dufour (Université du Quebec a Chicoutimi), and "Latin America in the 18th Century", chaired by J.C.M. Ogelsby (University of Western Ontario). A joint session with the Canadian Association of Hispanists was also featured.
CANISIUS COLLEGE—BUFFALO

On September 19-20 Canisius College hosted the annual conference of the National Association of Self-Instructional Language Programs (NASILP). The conference had a dual purpose: first, to give its own program directors and examiners an annual opportunity to share experiences, discuss new techniques, course materials and equipment, review orientation and examination procedures, discuss academic standards, program expansion and budgetary matters and also to explore scholarship or career opportunities for our most promising students; and second, to enable faculty and administrators from institutions not yet acquainted with the effectiveness and basic economy of self-instructional language programs to discover how to establish similar programs of their own.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY

Peter T. Knight (Cornell University) informs us that a group of 30 persons from 12 countries of North and South America, Africa, and Europe participated in a Workshop on Implementation of Self-Managed Systems in the Third World held June 9-27. The principal language of this workshop was Spanish. Presentations, each followed by a discussion, included experiences with producer and industrial cooperatives in Honduras; agricultural cooperatives in Costa Rica; a system for launching communitarian enterprises by stages in Colombia; co-management between a union and the State in Argentina; agricultural and industrial cooperatives in Chile, agricultural production cooperatives, agricultural societies and labor communities in Peru; and agricultural enterprises in Algeria. In addition, Jaroslav Vanek, Director of the Program on Participation and Labor-Managed Systems at Cornell University, gave a talk on the basic principles of self-management.

During the final week participants prepared a preliminary synthesis of the principal conclusions and a bibliography covering theoretical and general works dealing with self-management and worker participation. This document, in Spanish, was sent to all workshop participants for their comments and criticism. Copies may be obtained by writing Implementation Workshop, Program on Participation and Labor-Managed Systems, Uris Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York 14853. Please send $1.00 to cover reproduction and postage.

1. The present status of the Midwest's Latin American Studies programs
2. Prospects for funding and programmatic needs of the Midwest

Participants included Helen Anderson (New York University), Carlos Blanco (University of California-San Diego), Pedro Cuperman (New York University), José Donoso (Chilean author), Jean Franco (Stanford University), John B. On April 17-19 the Center for Inter-American Studies hosted a United States-Mexico Conference on Border Industrialization, co-sponsored by the Instituto Tecnológico y de Estudios Superiores de Monterrey with the collaboration of the United States Embassy in Mexico, D.F. The conference concentrated on two objectives: first, interrelated problems of industrialization along the United States-Mexican border were examined. Second, the question of border industrial development was analyzed as a means of proposing and providing at least partial remedies for an entire range of problems endemic to the border which are of immediate concern to government leaders, businessmen and university specialists, both in the U.S. and Mexico. The conference, in addition to providing opportunities for specialists and interested parties to exchange ideas and develop common approaches, established a means of developing continuing communications for coordinated efforts in the future.

WASHINGTON

NEW STATE DEPARTMENT RESEARCH PROGRAM

The Department of State has added a new dimension to its contract research program which should be of special interest to Latin Americanists. This will seek to develop analyses and policy concepts on aspects of world affairs of central importance to the successful conduct of U.S. foreign relations in the mid-term future. The purpose is to expand productive dialogue between foreign affairs scholars in universities or other research institutions and officers in the State Department and elsewhere in the U.S. Government.

This year (Fiscal-1976) the program will focus on for broad topics:

--The Dynamics of Inter-American Relations
--The Political Dynamics and International Relations of the People's Republic of China
--The Political Dynamics and International Relations of the USSR
--Critical Problems of International Interdependence

Within each topic:

--research organizations and scholars will be invited to propose specific research projects which they believe will illuminate aspects of the topic having an important bearing on U.S. foreign relations in the mid-term;

--contract awards will be made to those proposers whose projects are competitively judged most likely to contribute to improved policy thinking in the U.S. Government; and --it is anticipated that research conducted under an award will be carried out on an unclassified basis with open publication of results.

Planning is proceeding on the assumption that about $600,000 will be available in Fiscal-1976 for this program and that this amount will be allocated in roughly equal portions to each of the four topics. Within each of these areas, therefore, it is not likely that the Department will be able to make more than two or three awards.

Additional information is available in a draft Work Statement which has been sent to a number of research institutions and individuals. Copies of this statement for the Inter-American Relations topic may be obtained from Daniel Fendrick, Senior Program Officer, Office of External Research, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20520. Formal requests for proposals, based on this draft statement will be sent later to those institutions and individuals who indicate an interest in the program.
