ICPSR Summer Program

IN QUANTITATIVE METHODS OF SOCIAL RESEARCH

The Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research is pleased to announce our 2012 Summer Program in Quantitative Methods of Social Research. The program consists of two four-week sessions, with instruction organized in lecture, seminar, and workshop formats, as well as three- to five-day workshops. The program provides participants with opportunities to examine the impact of various methodologies on specific substantive issues. Research scholars of social methodology present informal lectures focusing on their recent research interests.

ICPSR is a membership organization that engages in archiving social science data, providing open and equitable access to data, promoting the effective use of data, and facilitating linkages between research and instruction (quantitative literacy). We encourage LASA members to browse our Web site at www.icpsr.umich.edu for data, instructional materials, student internships and research tools. In addition, we encourage data sharing with the larger research community.
