

ENVIRONMENTAL FIELD STUDIES

THE SFS DIFFERENCE

THE SCHOOL FOR FIELD STUDIES (SFS) offers field-based programs for U.S. undergraduate college students, who conduct environmental research at our Centers across the world. Our research helps inform local stakeholders on the environmental issues critical to their livelihoods. Students gain academic credit while learning valuable research techniques, science communication skills. Each year, select SFS students co-author articles in peer-reviewed journals as a result of their work. Semester and summer programs available.
